Gave A Fine Concert

That the concert given by the Boston Opera Co. at the Colonial Tuesday evening of last week was in its entirety the best thing of the kind ever heard here seems to be the universal verdict. The program of selections from the best grand operas was a long one but the artists responded quite generously to the co-cores.

The audience was much smaller than it should have been and consisted for a greater proportion than one would expect of out-of-town people but it is doubtful if people generally supposed that an entertainment of such a high grade could be expected in a town no larger than this. Where every singer is an artist and the music which he gives ranks among the classics it would be an unfortunate surely who could find fault or criticize.

A series of photographs illustrating the cultivation and harvesting of tea, coffee and all Southern fruits may now be seen at the Athenaeum.

SEED OATS

By the words SEED OATS, we do not mean feeding oats that have been given a little extra cleaning and a name. Such oats test about 50 out of 100 that will sprout and usually contain more or less noxious weed seeds.

The kind of Seed Oats that we believe in, must be carefully selected: must test 96 to 99 seeds that will grow out of every 100; must be 99 and a fraction pure, the only impurity being a little dirt or chaff. Such are the Seed Oats put up under our
